

Know Food Safety Rules: In 2009, we will begin to phase out our food handler classes. We have purchased computerized training stations and will be setting them up on Lopez, Orcas and San Juan Islands. The computer course “Do it Right, Serve it Safe” is an interactive training program that is being utilized by many jurisdictions across the State. The program will allow food workers to receive training and their food worker cards anytime during our normal working hours. This should provide more opportunities with fewer disruptions for your employees. We will provide some limited classes (listed below) in early 2009 to allow time for our department to set-up the stations and work out any bugs.
