

Adam Zack

From: Ingrid Gabriel
Sent: Thursday, July 15, 2021 5:09 PM
To: Vacation Rental Comments
Subject: FW: For the record-- WVEC (Dana Smith) 7/14/21-- Virginia Beach Airbnb decision sparks backlash from property owner coalition

From: Michael Johnson <mdjishere@gmail.com>
Sent: Thursday, July 15, 2021 2:37 PM
To: San Juan County Council <councilvm@sanjuanco.com>
Subject: For the record-- WVEC (Dana Smith) 7/14/21-- Virginia Beach Airbnb decision sparks backlash from property owner coalition

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe.

Ingrid, would you make sure this gets to the mailbox of the county council members please. Thank you,

MJ

Greetings Council Members,

As is described in this short news article from Virginia Beach, there is often realistic cause for concern regarding any potential fallout that may result from change. Whether it's the unintended backlash, or even the sometimes predicted consequences as are described in the short video below that have to be dealt with, for example, like resultant lawsuits that might evolve out of the effort of good citizens trying to protect their communities from the over-proliferation of vacation rentals in their communities, or whether a new generation of vacation rental owners that defy the law, and decide to go underground suddenly erupts... let there be no doubt, that this fallout is not caused by those that are advocating for the change, this is caused by current land use policies, and decades of avoiding the growing issue of overtourism, and the lack of enforcement.

The gall of the lady in the video (the Vacation rental consortium advocate), to claim that "Now, they're turning good people into criminals", because her prediction is that the next generation of vacation rental owners will now "be forced" to disobey the law and "go underground".

People going underground to illegally rent a VR outside of local regulations is not a product born out of a movement to limit vacation rentals... it is one of greed performed by the people that are participating in the illegal act, and is one that is enabled by the county's inability to enforce their regulations. In other words, the status quo. "The more things change, the more they stay the same".

WVEC (Dana Smith) 7/14/21-- Virginia Beach Airbnb decision sparks backlash from property owner coalition

"The city council decided new short-term rentals are not allowed outside Sandbridge unless a neighborhood specifically asks for them."

<https://www.13newsnow.com/article/news/local/mycity/virginia-beach/virginia-beach-airbnb-decision-sparks-backlash-from-property-owner-coalition/291-5677b035-0953-4bff-a7d0-dce69d561822>

Council member Barbara Henley explained, "We're not saying that overlay districts and short-term rentals can only be in one part of the city. You can be in any of these, provided the neighborhood asks for it."

The Virginia Beach Property Rights Coalition said the council has virtually banned new rentals. It's accusing the city of "killing" a flourishing industry.

City council member John Moss was among the majority ruling.

"My job is to be an advocate for neighborhoods and the status quo because someone is asking for the status quo to be changed," Moss said. "The industry is asking us - 'and be progressive' — to up-zone property that changes the character of the neighborhood that other people bought into."

Coalition board member, Page Miyares said rental platforms like Airbnb aren't going away just because the city doesn't want them there.

RELATED: Virginia Beach City Council discusses short-term rentals

"It's kind of like the scooters that just showed up, and no one knew what to do with them, and everyone hated them; But now they're kind of status quo and I think when you look at the trajectory. I don't see how that doesn't happen with this industry as well," she said.

"What they did last night is they really put the traditional, compliant homeowners out of business and they've made way for the unregistered AirBnBs to fl

"When you're talking about banning and not having them. So many are going to go underground," Wilson said. "Just like the days of prohibition when alcohol was banned, people still drank but then they did it illegally."

Miyares called the move is a blow to the economy and the tourism industry. She said if property owners want more information, Miyares said you can visit the Coalition's Facebook page at "Friends of Virginia Beach Vacation Rentals" for more information and to get alerts.

Related Articles

Virginia Beach finishes audit of police department body camera program

Norfolk, Virginia Beach animal shelters offering discounts on adoptions

Gov. Northam proposes multi-million dollar plan to help boost small business recovery

You May Like

Sponsored Links by Taboola

Woman Files For Divorce After Seeing This Photo - Can You See Why?

MisterStory

Get Ready America -- Is Financial Lockdown Coming?

Stansberry Research

7 Discounts Seniors Only Get If They Ask

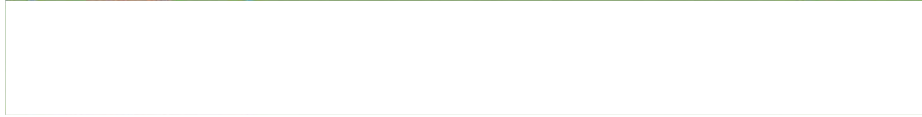

The Wallet Watcher

Man Decides to File for Divorce After Taking a Closer Look at This Photo!

JustPerfact USA

Cher's Son Chaz Bono Is So Skinny Now And Looks Like A Model (Photos)

Daily Finance Stories

LOADING NEXT ARTICLE...